

For this website I want to make it a sort of personal website that I can use to display my future projects sort of like a portfolio which I will keep on adding to it the more and more I progress as a programmer. I will have 3 pages on this website and each one of them will be focusing on different part of me my main page will be about me as a person who I am where im from what I like and personal stuff that I don't mind sharing and ill also have a page to talk about me education and lastly one with some code samples and past projects that I have worked on and that I want to showcase. I will keep on adding to that page the further I progress in my degree but also just in general when I'm a professional developer. I still don't have a color palette in mind but I will pick something that will give my website a sort of professional look to it but the good thing about colors is that I can change them anytime I want so there is no issue right now and I am sure I will be thinking about adding more things once I start my prototype because Im more of a visualizer when it comes to designing websites.